DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-7 and 9-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Applicants have added limitations without providing adequate support. Specifically, the limitations are directed to vertical paddles with no slanted surfaces and paddles with no holes. While applicants state that the drawing disclose such negative limitations, they also state that “unless described otherwise in the specification, the drawings are not believed to represent the exact shape and size of the impeller or the tank.” (Page 8 of Remarks). Any negative limitation or exclusionary proviso must have basis in the original disclosure. See Ex parte Grasselli, 231 USPQ 393 (Bd. App. 1983), aff’d mem., 738 F.2d 453 (Fed. Cir. 1984). Also, see MPEP 2173.05(I).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Art Unit: 1761

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1-3, 9, 14, 16 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Akamine et al. (U.S. Pat. No. 6,244,741)(“Akamine”).

Akamine teaches a stirring device having the claimed dimensions. (Col. 4, lines 13-38). The device is broadly used for “mixing, dissolving, dispersing or so on of medium or high viscous fluid or the like, in a chemical industry, a pharmaceutical industry, a food industry and so on.” (col. 1, lines 12-18).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4-7, 10-15, 17 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Grylls et al. (U.S. Pat. No. 4,188,407)(“Grylls”) in view of Akamine.

Grylls teaches the production of active dried yeast whereby yeast is placed in a stirred tank and a rotor blade “that moves around the periphery of the bed forcing the yeast towards the center of the bed. Thus a preferred apparatus comprises a slowly rotating (e.g. 2 to 0 or 100, preferably 10 to 20 rpm) rotor blade that sweeps the periphery of the bed and one or more fast rotating blades.” (Col. 5, lines 17-30). While the phrase “periphery of the bed” indicates that the blade extends to the walls of the tank, Grylls does not literally teach the dimensions of the rotor blade or that the blades are vertical with no holes.

Akamine teaches that cited above. It would have been obvious to those of ordinary skill in the art to utilize the mixing apparatus of Akamine in the process of Grylls because they would extend to the periphery of the yeast bed and they have a high stirring efficiency, can be easily washed and maintained. (Akamine, col. 2, lines 25-33).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-7 and 9-15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

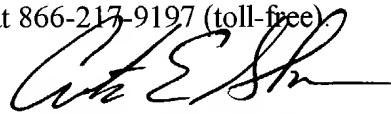

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Takata et al. (USPN 5,399,014) disclose a mixing apparatus. Taniguchi et al. (USPN 5,160,041) disclose a coagulation reaction tank.
